
Peter J. Provenzano
President and CEO
SupplyCore Inc.

Peter J. Provenzano is President and Chief Executive Officer of SupplyCore Inc. He has led SupplyCore in winning multiple defense contracts in support of U.S. troops worldwide.

Mr. Provenzano is a strong supporter of the defense industry and founder of the Great Lakes Chapter of the National Defense Industrial Association (NDIA). As the CEO of a small business, he is an advocate of small business participation in defense contracts as both primes and subcontractors. He has successfully advocated to have unrestricted prime contracts reviewed as potential small business set-asides. In 2008, Mr. Provenzano guided SupplyCore in winning the FASI-G Small Business Set-Aside contract to provide tactical wheeled vehicle spare parts to troops worldwide. The FASI-G Set-Aside contract is one of the largest small business set-asides ever awarded by the Department of Defense.

During Mr. Provenzano's tenure, SupplyCore has been awarded Inc. Magazine's Inc. 500 award five years in a row and inducted into the Inc. Hall of Fame. This annual award recognizes America's fastest-growing privately-owned companies. Today, SupplyCore maintains a worldwide network of offices in Japan, Okinawa, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Illinois, California, South Carolina, Missouri, Florida, Ohio, and Georgia.

Mr. Provenzano has maintained SupplyCore's headquarters in his hometown where he is very active in the community. He was honored with the Rockford Park District's Community Service Award in 2010. In addition to participating on numerous Boards, Mr. Provenzano is Chairman of the Rock River Development Partnership (RRDP), a public/private partnership he co-founded with Rockford's Mayor. In May 2011, he was inducted into the Rockford Area Convention and Visitors Bureau's "Tourism Hall of Fame" for his work with RRDP and establishing the Rockford City Market.